GRAFTING

1 YEAR RECOVERY

WHAT TO EXPECT WHILE RECOVERING

DAY 0-3: IMMEDIATE RECOVERY

- A graft is a tiny group of hair follicles moved from one area of your scalp to another
- The scalp may feel tender or tight, similar to a mild sunburn
- Tiny scabs form where hair was placed - this is normal and expected
- Most people rest, hydrate, and keep their head protected
- You can usually travel home comfortably within this window

WEEK 1-2: SETTLING PHASE

- Scabs begin to fall away naturally (do not pick them)
- Redness gradually fades
- The transplanted hairs may still be visible or begin to loosen

IMPORTANT ASSURANCE:

- How it looks now is not how it will look long term

WEEK 2-8: SHOCK LOSS (VERY NORMAL)

- Some or most of the transplanted hairs shed
- This is called shock loss

- The hair strand falls out, not the hair root

- What “shock loss” means: Your scalp briefly pauses hair production while it heals, but this does not mean the transplant failed

MONTH 3-4: NEW GROWTH BEGINS

- New hairs start to slowly emerge
- Hair may appear fine, soft, or uneven at first
- Growth may come in waves which is normal

- Think: early sprouts, not full coverage yet

MONTH 6: VISIBLE IMPROVEMENT

- Hair looks noticeably fuller
- Texture begins to thicken
- You may start styling your hair again

- This is often when confidence starts to return

MONTH 9-12: MATURATION PHASE

- Hair continues to thicken and strengthen

- Density improves
- Growth becomes more consistent

12-18 MONTHS: FINAL RESULTS

- Hair reaches its full, natural appearance
- Final density and texture settle
- Results are long-term and permanent

KEY THINGS TO REMEMBER

- Shedding early on is expected and temporary
- Healing happens in phases, not overnight
- Everyone’s timeline is slightly different
- Support treatments (PRP, laser therapy, proper aftercare) help optimize results

IN SIMPLE TERMS

- Hair is placed → hair rests → hair sheds → hair regrows → hair thickens
- Patience is part of the process
